Reflections

On The Lake

Everybody talks about the irresponsibility of youth, but few do anything about it.

Mrs. Lucille Campbell is one of the few who is doing some thing about the situation by offering her service as an ambassador of goodwill between those unemployed and those who can offer employment of any kind.

By telephoning HI 3-1360 unemployed youth and employer will be brought together by Mrs. Campbell.

Gene L. Anderson, Box 534, was graduated as a journeyman lastweek in a class of 200. He completed apprenticeship training as a lather.

Mr. and Mrs. William Van Noe of San Diego will soon occupy their recently purchased home on Julian Avenue.

More than 100 residents of the Normal Heights area enjoyed the hilarious program of events at the first annual Adams Business Association picnic last Sunday at Lindo Park, Lakeside.

Virginia Morehouse won the gate prize, a sanitary disposall, donated by Riling Plumbing Co., acocrding to Mrs. Julius Kaufman. chairman.

Evelyn Holden captured the rolling pin throw for women, with a 60-foot heave. John Detrick won the men's throw with a 200-foot pitch. The two winners teamed up to win the egg throw.

The picnic committee included Mrs. Agnes Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. John Vesco. Willie Kalfman and Ralph Hope assisted in the game gram.

The unanimous opinion of those who arrived at 10 a. m. and stayed until 6, was for a second annual picnic.

Rev. A. L. Greenawalt will act as principal of the school, which was given a rating of "AA" last year by Southern Baptist Convention standards. Over 200 pupils attended the school last year. Children of all denominations may attend and those with no church ties are welcomed.

Five men, ordained deacons at the First Baptist Church Sunday, were Don Freman, Christ Stevens, Joe Fox, Eldon Lambson and Wilburn Martin.

United Cerebral Palsy

The vocational future of thousands of cerebral palsied men and women may be greatly affected by the results of a study now under way at New York City's Institute for the Crippled and Disabled.

The purpose of the New York City project. which is co-sponsored by UCP-New York City and UCP-Quens, N. Y., in conjunction with state and federal agencies, is to design vocational aptitude tests specically for cerebral palsied patients.

At the CP Classification and Evaluation Cented in New York City, CP adults are first graded on their performance on movements basic to industry, after which they move on to specific tasks. Their final score is taken only after the clients have had the chance to become familiar with the task. In many instances, the CP adults who complete the 7-week course are found ready for employment after a training period and, although the project was not primarily created to serve as a placement bureau, employment has been encouraging in several cases.

Recently, Performance Magazine, published by President Eisenhowers Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped, spolighted the Clasification and Evaluation Project in an article which described some of the methods used and employment results obtained to date. Performance is circulateed to Cabinet members, Congressmen, Governors, and State and Federal agencies and personnel.

The fact that this prestige publication has seen fit to bring attention to the study is tesitmony to its value as a project of considerable interest to the Cerebral Palsied and those working with them.

The auditorium of the Dana High School at Narragansett Ave., and Chatsworth Blvd., will provide seating and staging facilities.

The Abduction From the Seraglio is a titbit of Turkish delight set to the gayest music ever written by the master musician-composer, Wolfgang Amadeus Moart, whose two hundredth birthday anniversary is being celebrated t hrougout the musical world. Mozart's musical harem is inhabitated by two charming sopranos, the pirate captives, Constanza and Blonda. Constanza is sung by Claire Everhard and Blonda by Antonia Hargreaves. They are the unwilling captives of Selim Pasha, the ruling Turk in this sixteenth century setting. His role is spoken and acted by Jack Love.

The thre-act comedy includes Belmonte, the beloved of Constanza, a tenor role sung by Donald Taylor and Robert Salmon.

High Jinks Will Highlite Square Dance Convention

Unique exhibitions are planned by several square dancing delegations coming to San Diego June 22, 23 and 24 for the Fifth Annual National Square Dance Convention.

One group of Texas dancers will be on roller skates while presenting special numbers. A wheel chair cavalcade is scheduled to come from Arizona.

Among the organizations which have established national reputations for their dance specialties and are scheduled to attend the San Diego convention are the "Silver Spurs" of Spokane, Wash., headed by R. L. "Red" Henderson; the "Aqua Barn" group of Seattle, Wash., which obtained its name from a floating barn on Lake Washington, headed by Jack Riley; a group of contra dancers from Boston, which will fly here and will be accorded a gala reception at Lindberg Field, and the "Grand Square Group" of Fort Worth, Texas.

S. D. Faces Shortage Of Re ntUnits

San Diego faces the possibility of a serious rental housing shortage. If contemplated employment of 12,000 people in San Diego during the next 12 months is not accompanied by a sharp upturn in the construction of multiple units, rentals will become as scarce as they were during the Korean War.

There has been a recent gain in multiple unit construction, but only 704 such units were authorized in the entire county during the first three months of this year.

cilities are being fully utilized.

After June 15, the only P.H.A. operated project will be Chollas View.

Of a total of 3,280 units in municipal housing projects San Diego City, Coronado, National City and Chula Vista, 57 per cent were occupied by families of service men on May 1.

Inactive gas and electric meter data indicate that the number of vacancies declined appreciably in the first quarter of the year.

Vacation Centers For Local Youth

Summer vacation begins this week-end for thousands of San Diego school children, but no such holiday is in store for City Park and Recreation Department personnel. The city's 66 playgrounds and community centers Balboa and Mission Bay Parks, 10 lifeguard - staffed beaches, swimming pols and Torrey Pines day camp, prepare Monday to receive most of the youth population on a full-time basis.

Playgrounds will be open varied hours acocrding to community needs and available personnel. Larger areas will open at 9 a. m., and close at 9 or 10 at night. Recreation programs on city playgrounds will include athletics and games, arts and crafts, dancing, tiny tot activities, reading hours, dramatics, clubs, and special events.

Programs listing hour-by-hour activities are available at each playground. Trained personnel will supervise activity at each area.

Balboa Park will offer programs at the Junior Theatre, the Museum of Man, the Natural History Museum, the San Diego Zoo, the Fine Arts Gallery, the Youth Symphony, the Junior Civic Ballet, and Balboa Park gym in various athletics.

A new system of play for younger age groups in Junior Galf Association tournaments will be inaugurated at the June 21 and 22 'first annual City Junior Championships at Balboa Park Municipal Golf Course, it was announced this week.

Boys in two divisions, 11 and 12 years old and the 10-and-under age class, will playe a maximum of 9 holes per day in tournament competition. The nine-hole limitation also will apply to girls in the 14-and-under age division.

JGA Chairman John W. Brown said the new system will permit participation by hundreds of boys and girls who otherwise would have to forego tournament golf because of physical or experience limitations.

In the case of the City Junior Champions, children in the younger age groups will be required to play only nine holes in a qualifying round on June 18 at one of the designated five qualifying courses.

Those who qualify will play nine holes June 21 and another nine holes June 22 at Balboa Municipal , and the trophies for these divisions will be based on 18-hole scores, If deemed capable,

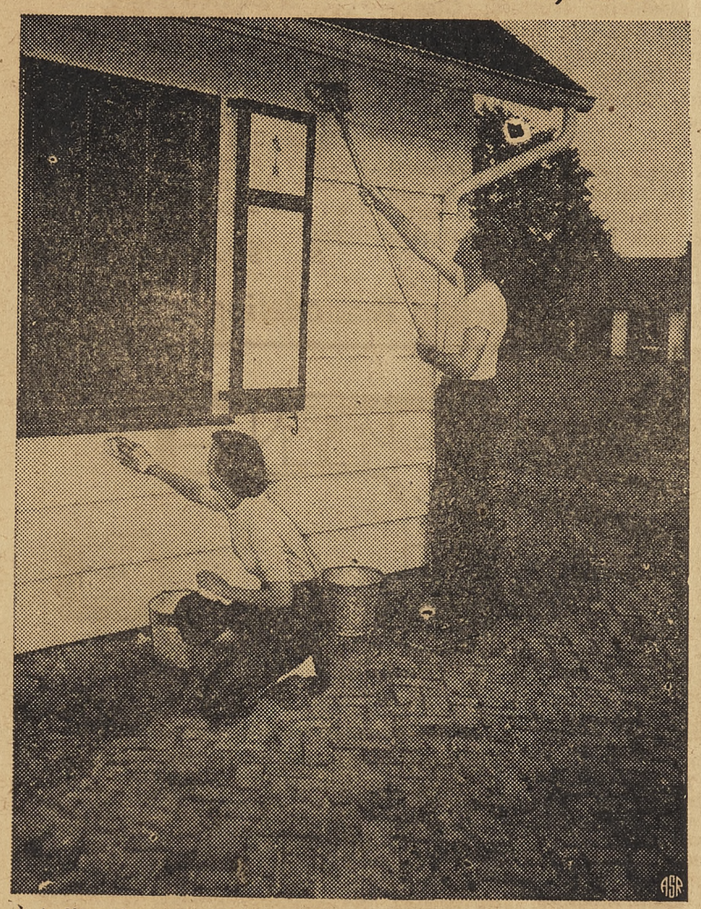
Home & Garden

A House Needs A Clean Face, Too!

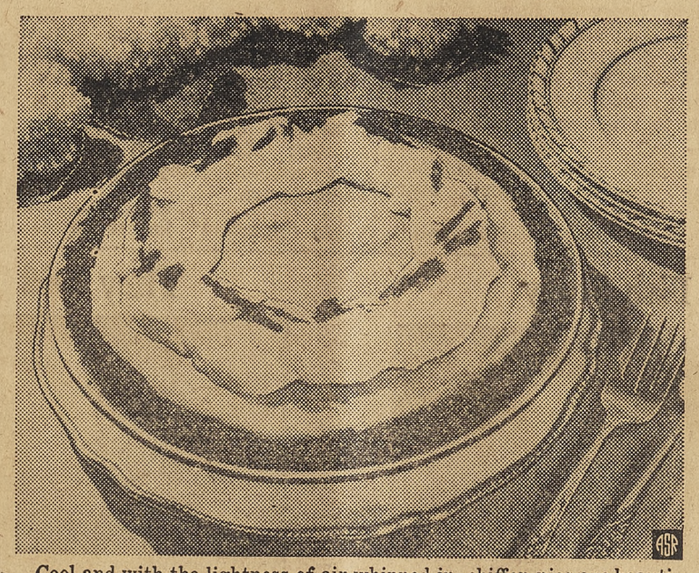


A dingy house that looks as though it needs painting may just need a good washing instead. This isn't as much of a task as one might think, and homeowners can wash their own house without having to hire the job done. Choose a cloudy day in early summer, when trees have finished pollinating and dust has been laid by Spring rains. Preferably, pick a day following a good rain, as the dirt crust on the walls will then be softened up and easier to wash away.

All you'll need is a bucket, a long-handled scrub brush, the garden hose, soap and water, plus a ladder or step-stool if you have to reach. Wash one reasonably small section at a time. Hose it first, then scrub the wet area with plenty of soapsuds. Wield your brush from the top down, rinsing each section with the hose before starting on the next. As you repeat the operation all around the house, be sure to overlap your scrubbing strokes so there won't be any telltale streaks.

A fair estimate of the time required for washing a one-story house can be reckoned in hours, and the cost, compared to a new paint job, is too small even to bother to reckon!

Airy Coffee Chiffon Pie Hits New Summer High



Cool and with the lightness of air whipped in, chiffon pies are beautiful to look at and delicate of taste. They provide a fancy food touch to party entertaining yet are easy to make. This one achieves a sophisticated coffee flavor with instant coffee and an envelope of unflavored gelatine and beaten egg for its fluffy mocha filling. An easy crust is fashioned of chocolate cookie crumbs, butter and sugar . . . no baking necessary.

Unflavored gelatine and chiffon fillings are just naturally associated. When the gelatine custard mixture is folded into beaten egg whites, each little air bubble becomes encased and held by the gelatine.

Coffee Chiffon Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
½ cup sugar, divided
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons instant coffee
1 cup water
3 eggs, separated
1 9-inch chocolate crumb crust

Mix together gelatine, ¼ cup of the sugar, salt and coffee in top of double boiler. Add water. Cook over boiling water until sugar is dissolved. Beat egg yolks slightly. Slowly add hot liquid, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook over hot water, stirring constantly, until mixture is slightly thickened. Remove from heat; chill until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry; gradually beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar. Fold in gelatine mixture. Turn into a 9-inch chocolate crumb crust and chill until firm. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and shaved chocolate.

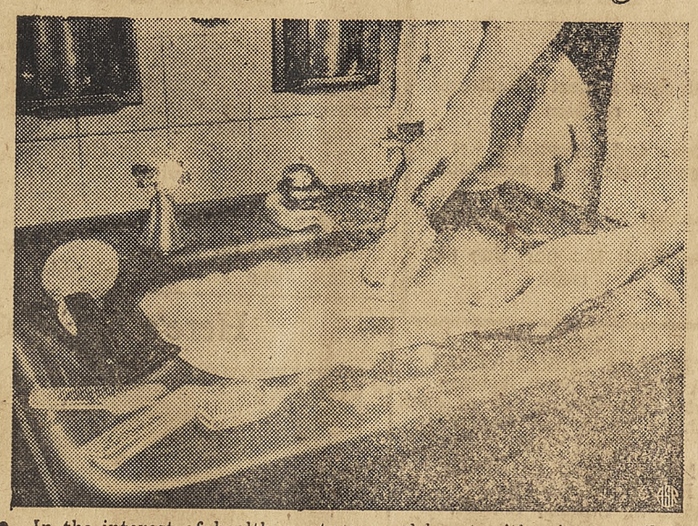
YIELD: 1 9-inch pie.

Chocolate Crumb Crust

1 cup chocolate cookie crumbs
¼ cup softened butter
2 tablespoons sugar

Mix chocolate crumbs with sugar and butter. Press mixture evenly on bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate; chill in refrigerator.

Grooming Tools Need Washing



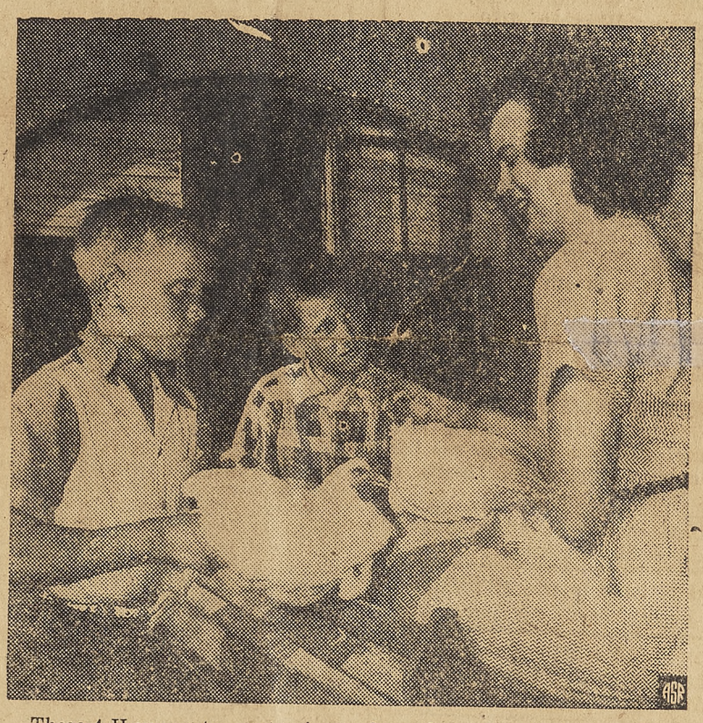
In the interest of health, neatness, and beauty, it's wise to gather family brushes and combs for a scrubbing at least every week or so.

An easy, step-saving way is to collect them in a bag or basket during your morning bed-making rounds. You'll probably end your clean-up tour in the bathroom to put out fresh towels and straighten up after the morning rush. With beauty tools in hand, it's simple to put them in the basin for a hot sudsy bath.

Since soap and hot water have a disinfecting action, everything can be dunked together just like the family wash. Even though no one should use another's brush or comb, it's quite safe and much easier to wash these at the same time.

Don't neglect complexion, mascara, lipstick, or clothes brushes. Once in a while, persuade the menfolks to leave their pocket combs for a scrubbing and, of course, do all the combs from your own and other pocketbooks.

Washing is double-quick if you work with both hands—letting brush and comb work soapsuds into each other. When everything is clean-as-new, rinse in hot water and shake to remove the excess. Dry brushes with bristles down so that water drains from the tuft holes.



These 4-H youngsters get pointers from their adult leader in culling pullets as they prepare to move the birds into the hen house to begin egg production. For the first time this important farm operation is being noted with a special observance, National "Hen House" Month. While culling of laying hens has long been considered a vital step in profitable poultry raising, the culling of pullets is just coming into its own. Pillsbury Feed Dealers are taking the lead in providing culling information during "Hen House" Month observances and are emphasizing the new method of culling pullets before they enter the hen house.

Here's A Good Fish Story

This time of year, when fresh fish are plentiful and economical, is a good time to get acquainted with the many varieties available not only near ocean and lakes but in inland towns, thanks to modern refrigeration.

Secret of success in cooking fish is not to overcook it, and to season it properly. Fish is bland, and takes well to simple sauces, such as the Tabasco sauce below. A high quality protein food, there are some 160 varieties of fish sold in the United States. Here are pictured, reading top to bottom, three salt water varieties, sea bass, mackerel and porgie, and three fresh water species, white fish, yellow pike and brook trout.

An easy and appetizing way of preparing fish for the table is by simple broiling. To serve four, plan on 1 pound of fillets or steaks or four small fish, and 3 to 4 tablespoons of fat. Preheat broiler. Cut fillets or steaks into serving pieces. Grease the broiler rack lightly. Place fish on rack, skin side up; brush with melted fat. Place rack 2 to 3 inches from heat. Broil fish 5 to 8 minutes or until brown, and serve with this tangy sauce.

Tabasco Butter Sauce

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
4½ teaspoons lime juice
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 tablespoon minced parsley

Melt butter in saucepan. Add lime juice and Tabasco; heat. Add parsley. YIELD: Approximately ⅓ cup.

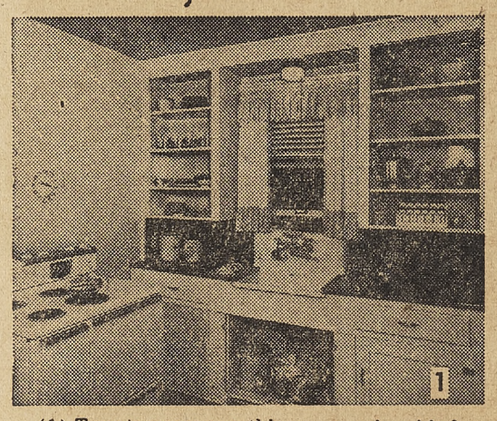
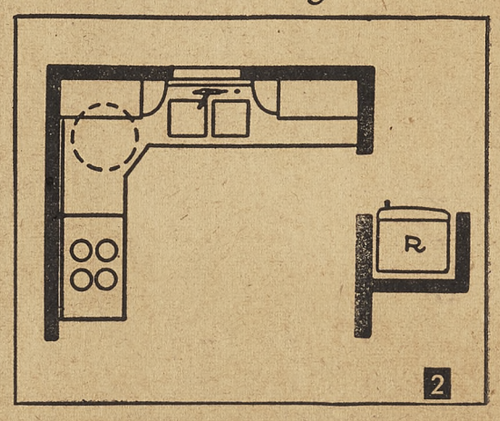
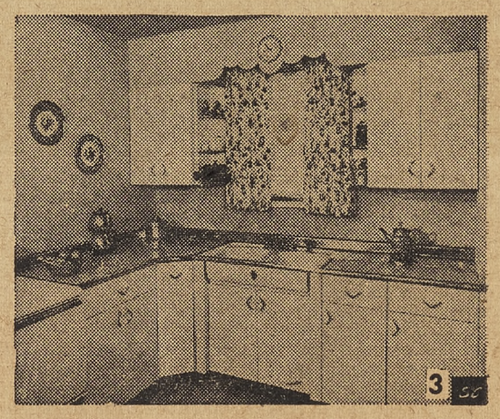
They Did Their Own Kitchen Remodeling







(1) Twenty years ago, this was a modern kitchen. But today it doesn't measure up. There's too much wasted space, an unsightly undersink area, dust-catching open shelving, no water seal between sink and cabinets. Tired of its inconvenience and lack of style, the husband and wife decided to remodel.

(2) They called a steel kitchen dealer who offered free planning. He drew this layout. Additional storage and work space were gained with a corner base cabinet with revolving shelves and a cabinet along the left wall. Twin bowl cabinet sink gave greater convenience. Handy "what-not" shelves rounded off the enclosed wall cabinets.

(3) The husband tore out the old and put in the new kitchen in one day. The Youngstown Kitchen cabinets came ready to install, finished in a Dawn Yellow baked-on enamel. He bolted them together and to the wall, bolted on the water-tight top, and the job was done, except for plumbing by a licensed plumber and decorating by his wife. Ceiling soffit of hardboard. HEALTH HINTS

Why Have Those Recurring Headaches?

Headaches are not unimportant incidents to be dismissed by deadening the pain. The recurring type, especially, is a warning and to ignore its clear indication of some deeper seated trouble is like turning off the alarm and going back to sleep.

The common headache is a scourge of the home, factory, and office. It comes from definite and varied disorders, which must be diagnosed and eliminated.

Many headaches come from excesses in food, drink, overwork, lack of sleep and relaxation, insufficient fresh air and exercise, nervous tension and emotional upsets. Among the serious afflictions, chronic or acute, which may contribute to the occurrence of headaches are diabetes, kidney disorders, anemia, constipation, sinusitis, and eyestrain.

Recurring headaches usually stem from some deep-seated, abnormal processes. Temporary relief may be welcome, but unless the basic cause is located, in a thorough physical examination, and then eliminated, serious damage may be done to the entire system.

The most common cause of recurring headaches is nerve irritation as a result of displacement (subluxation) of one or more neck vertebrae. These affect various nerves and cause pain inside or outside the head. In migraine, they also involve the blood supply.

No headache is just an 'effect' without a cause. The doctor of chiropractic knows better than to dismiss it as something to be temporarily relieved and then ignored until it happens again and again. Careful spinal manipulation, following X-ray examinations for diagnostic purposes, offers relief while correcting the basic cause — nerve irritation. The restoration of normal nerve function gives assurance of welcome relief from recurring headaches.

SUNDOWN ON THE PACIFIC SHORE

A novel about the Great West

BY RENAN PREVOST

PREFACE

All thru the West there are Ghost Towns. Mostly in the region of the gold mines, of the wild, reckless days of 1849 and after. There are ruins of buildings and etc., which have a story, of the days,- of glory and easy wealth for some men; and dissappointment and tragic passing for other men.

About every city there are happenings of the past which are not always recorded; some men leave great names for their accomplishments, and land marks are named after them such as Parks, Streets and Schools. Also there are men, the workers who have "done the work" who are usually forgotten, with their passing on from this world. This story is about these men of great courage, supreme courage. Many of them arrived here without funds, and so gainful employment was necessary and that was work- hard work. Work not in line with their skill in a trade or profession.

Ghost towns have their story. So stories exist about buildings, water works, factories, railroads and other endeavors concerned with the earning of a livehood. These stories become interesting, because they portray a life during the days of the past,almost forgotten. Great buildings or public utilties are usually known by the name of the man or corporation which caused the construction. Very seldom is any credit given to an architect, or the men who actually did the work. These were the men-"the brains" who were responsible for the erection of the structure or etc. And so this novel is about those "brains" and how they came West and what their life was like.

There are certain things effecting the economic welfare of men, which cause them to migrate. Generally it is promise of better living conditions or opportunities of easy attainment of wealth, thru land booms, new agricultural crops such as rare fruits, a better livable climate,as an aid to regain health;or as in the case of the colonization of this great country- an escape from persecution or oppression.

Men have been traveling to the West for generations, so we travel West with our characters, starting in 1880.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Planting a Lemon Orchard in Lemondale.
Slizack Deals for Trees.
Jerry to Lemondale.

It was late in November when Jerry returned with the trees. A few gentle rain storms had come to soak the land. All the barren hills were again green, splotched with the color of the native wild flowers. There were yellows, purples, and blue. Fall in Southern California is like the glorious Spring of the Eastern States, particularly the land of snow and ice.

Jerry, tired and lonesome for his wife, was pleased again to be home. To be married to a good woman, then separated, such a lonesome feeling. It was all over now. The next day he made preparations to move to the farm. Dora hal selected what furniture and household goods, from the furniture store, that she needed. Also, she was ready with a list of such material as linens and tableware, which must be new.

Next day was moving day for the Todd family. The first night on the farm they were visited by Anna and Bill, who closed the store early, so they could make the trip to the farm.

PART TWO

Bill engaged a horse and wagon each day, for the delivery service which he had started, and with some new furniture due to arrive, he expected to increase the volume of his busines.

"I want to pay you for the things that Dora has taken from the store," said Jerry to Bill.

"Oh, no. You can't pay for anything. Don't forget that Dora has an interest in that store. I am glad that she should have the goods. Somehow, Jerry, I think that you would make a better living in the city. There is enough business for both of us. I would not want a partnership, because partnerships do not ever work to the satisfaction of all parties concerned."

someday I will consider your deal."

"Thank you, Bill, but I like the great out doors. Maybe

"Anytime you say, Jerry. Guess we better be going, Anna."

"Goodnight, folks. Goodnight."

"Goodnight."

PART THREE

Next day Jerry was busy with the farm. He hired the use of horses, a wagon, and an old sprinkling wagon, to carry water to the trees. Stakes were set where tree holes were to be dug. He had employed three Japs to help with the planting. One of them, named Mike Oshira, could speak English; the other two were Taro Shima, and Nitro Oguchi. These three Japs were good workers. They had worked up north in Riverside County on citrus farms, and as Jerry had no such experience, he employed those who had. One Jap was used to bring the trees from the railroad yard, where the carload was spotted; the other two Japs were to dig holes, and to plant. The holes were just large enough so as set the ball of the tree in. The first trees were set around the house. Jerry had planned to have a show place where he lived.

As work was progressing Twitcher drove up to have a good look. "Good morning," he said yet it was midafternoon. "I was just wondering if maybe there might be a few orange trees among the lot?"

"Oh yes, I have several for my own use, that I purchased extra. What were you thinking of?" asked Jerry.

"Well, maybe some land could be set to oranges. These newcomers might want orange or grapefruit orchards."

"Well, Twitcher, I did not miss any bets. I have some grapefruit trees, also, and one hundred pounds of seed, so I can start a nursery. We will take budwood from these trees that we have planted near my house," said Jerry.

"That is fine. I have to go and look at some land over there. I'll be seeing you, friend. Goodbye," replied James Twitcher.

PART FOUR

The first month passed on the ranch, all the trees were planted. Five acres for Jerry and an adjacent plot for Mr. Twitcher. Jerry kept his part of the deal. The seeds were planted in the nursery. Jerry had observed the methods used in Florida.

Jerry being a por man, was not able financially to hire labor to do all the work about the lemon ranch.

The first year Jerry planted a nursery for growing trees. Seed was planted; sour orange seed, which he obtained in Florida.

A seed bed was made of fine loam soil. The seed sowed in beds or plots about six inches wide and the lenghth of the bed, then covered with a half inch of sand. then covered with burlap sacks. The sacks were to keep the soil moist and thereby germination of seed was prompt. This was a very trying job for Jerry, who folowed the instructions of a government bulletin. Then one day he ran to the house.

"Dora? Dora?" he exclaimed. "The seed has sprouted, and little sprouts are coming up, breaking through the ground. Want to come and see them?"

"Yes, I do want to see them."

The inspection was truly gratifying. Jerry had prepared sacks on frames, which kept them about six inches above ground. He and Dora lifted them in place. The frames were thirty inches wide and twelve feet long.

"They look so nice and green, Jerry...

"Yes, they do. Maybe that is the start of our life's endeavor. Who knows, it might lead to independence for us."

"Yes, I hope so."

"Supper is ready, let us go in and eat," requested Dora.

PART FIVE

In about three months the little seedlings were transplanted in nursery rows, three feet apart, with the seedling twelve inches apart in the rows. The transplanting was a very exacting job. The seedlings must never become dry; must always be moist, kept in water, or covered with wet burlap sacks. Water was flowing in the trench rows that Jerry had prepared. The seedlings were transplanted in the flowing water. The root placed against the index finger and then pressed below the water level on the side of the trench. A very back-breaking job, indeed. Jerry did not use the three Japs very often; however, they lived in the bunk house, but worked at many different places.

Spring came, and the time for budding.

"Dora, could you help with the budding of the trees?" he asked.

"Yes, Jerry, I will help."

So budding was started. Jerry obtained budwood from real good trees, properly kept damp in burlap sack rolls.

He was down on his knees budding. That was, cutting a little slit, perpendicularly on the small seedling, through the bark, then a cross cut, which made a T cut. Then still using the same small sharp, thin blade of his knife, he shaved the bud from the bud stock, promptly slipped the bud in place in the T cut, pushed it down till is was secure. When he moved on to the next tree Dora wrapped the incision in waxed cloth, covering it completely.

"Dora," he said, "this work is really hard on the knees."

"Yes, I know that, but I would rather work for ourselves, no matter how hard the work. We will someday enjoy the results of our labor."

"Well, someday, I expect that we will be able to hire labor to do this work."

Thousands of trees were grown by Jerry and Dora. They did all of the work in the first nursery, even digging the trees, and balling them. That is, a ball of dirt about the size of a small nail keg, wrapping securely with burlap sacks. Thus they were ready for sale, and transporting may miles. By keeping the balls damp, the trees held foilage for a long time, and transplanting was affected with a minimum of mortality of trees.

Months passed, the trees in their grove grew quite nicely in a year's time.

One day Twitcher came to the nursery to pay Jerry a visit, and inform him that he was the proud father of another baby boy.

"Congratulations, Twitcher. I am so happy for you. Did you tell Bill? Maybe Anna is well along with child. Did you know it?"

"Sure I knew it. Well, the cigars are on me, but it is oranges instead, so here are the oranges. How is Dora?"

"She is fine, but she needs some help in the home," Jerry remarked.

The trees are looking fine. In a few months I expect to start surveying that hundred acres over there into five acre tracts, then about that time your nursery trees should be ready. I will put on a sales campaign. This first grove, in this corner that is planted to Florida trees, I will use for a show place. Maybe there will be a few lemons on the trees then. I saw a few blossoms today, they are purplish red color, aren't they?" asked Twitcher.

"Yes, that is right," replied Jerry.

"What did you decide to do with your forty acres?" Twitcher asked.

"I think I will keep it for awhile. I have plenty of room here for the nursery."

"You will need plenty of trees if my guess it right Did you know that I have that tract of a thousand acres near the hills?" replied Twitcher.

"Maybe you are getting too much. How do you know if there is sufficient water available here for that much acreage in lemons?" asked Jerry.

"Maybe. We will not worry about that at this time. Plenty of water goes to waste in the river every wet season. Maybe it can be saved. Surely some day the City Dads will wake up to the possibilities available here," said Twitcher. "Well, goodbye, Jerry, don't wory."

One afternoon, when the Todds were working in the nursery, as usual, doing all the work themselves, being unable to hire help, a man named Slizack came to see about some trees.

"Mr. Todd?"

"Yes, I am Jerry Todd."

"I am John Slizack," he said as he extended his hand.

"I am glad to know you, Mr. Slizack."

"I want to buy some trees, but — but —"

"I don't understand. Why the 'but?' " remarked Jerry.

"But, I can't pay for all of them now, and I want to set out the whole ten acres at one time."

"Oh, I see. Trees are one dollar each, balled, ready for planting," replied Jerry.

"I need one thousand trees, and have only a hundred dollars to spare now. Would you take my note for the difference. I have a clear title to the property where they are to be planted."

"No, not for that amount. I would take a mortgage, however," replied Jerry.

"No, a mortgage would not be satisfactory. Can't you sell me the tres in the nursery row at a reduced price, then I would dig them myself?"

"Yes, I could. What is your best offer?" asked Jerry.

"I offer you sixty-five cents a tree, as is, where is. Paying one hundred dollars cash, the balance a note. I will not take any dirt with the trees, because I will not ball them. I will take bare root trees, packed in a box of wet shavings," suggested Slizack.

"What do you think about it, Dora?" asked Jerry.

"We could use the hundred dollars, Jerry. You do what you think best."

"All right, Mr. Slizack. I will take that deal. Come, we will mark out a thousand trees for you, then we will go into the house to complete the papers on the deal."

"The first sale of trees, but not all cash, yet the hundred dollars was surely needed.

That evening the Todds were tired, but happy. A sale had been made.

"Jerry, do you think the note is good?" asked Dora.

"Yes, I think it is. However, when he takes out the second load of trees I am going along to see where he is planting them, then on the way home I will go to La Mesa and see the banker there. I will find out if the note is good. Maybe if necessary, I could discount the note to the bank if we need money."

"Can you do that?" asked Dora.

"Yes, it has been done."

2nd ANNUAL PRESENTATION

SERAFINA

THE PLAY BY JEROME GERARD; MUSIC BY RENAN PREVOST

with additional numbers by

LOVE - INTRIGUE - COMEDY

A first rate tourist attraction must be original, entertaining, enjoyable and it must be seen only in one place Tourists travel the world over to see unusual attractions. "Serafina" and "Stars in the West" can be annual attractions for San Diego. There has never been anything offered in San Diego, to compare with the possibilties of these Historical Operettas, excepting, the two great Expositions -1915 and 1935, in our wonderful Balboa Park.

Why we offer these Operettas - The presentation of stage shows and etc., which have been produced for years, elsewhere, does not create prime tourist attractions of merit, for San Diego. Because as a rule tourists do not travel far to see stage shows; which can be seen at home or nearby. Or to hear music which is regularly used on the radio or on records for home playing. All of which; although, said shows and music are acceptable for amusement; but, they are in reality "common stuff" and seldom attract the well informed and enlightened tourist, seeking the unusual.

.A tourist attaction of supreme merit is the Historical Operetta. And produced annually in a Civic Theatre located admist the fine buildings of Balboa Park, which is world famous and the center of culture of San Diego. We have the Russ Auditorium which will suffice until a Civic Theatre can be provided, We have the talent and the most enjoyable operetta — "SERAFINA"

These Operettas are new, with appeal unlike the over-played stage presentations of the past years. So,- We offer these original Operettas, they can be tourist attractions unsurpassed; because they have not been produced elsewhere, most of the music has not been published, or offered for public use. Here are two historical Operettas, in all that it implies, about our San Diego.

The historical facts presented in the Operettas are such as has never heretofore been presented. Participation is available for Patrons and Sponsors send communications to -
